Travel Information

What do you have to carry with you when you travel to Nepal?

If you are traveling to Nepal for a holiday, here are some essential items you should consider bringing:

Passport and Visa:	Ensure that you have a valid passport with at least six months of validity left and a Nepali tourist visa or filled out on arrival visa form
Travel Insurance:	It's recommended to have travel insurance that covers medical expenses, emergency evacuation, and trip cancellation.
Cash/Credit Cards:	Nepal is primarily a cash-based economy, so it's essential to carry enough cash. Additionally, major cities and tourist areas accept credit cards, but be prepared to pay a fee for using them.
Medications:	Don't forget to carry any medications you need, along with a basic first-aid kit containing items such as band-aids, antiseptic, and pain relievers.
Camera and Accessories:	Nepal is a beautiful country, and you'll want to capture your memories. Bring a camera and accessories such as extra batteries and a memory card.
Cultural Respectful Clothing:	Nepal is a culturally respected country, so it's important to dress modestly, particularly in temples and other religious sites.
Sunscreen & Insect Repellent:	Nepal's high altitude means that the sun's rays are stronger, so sunscreen is crucial. Additionally, insect repellent is necessary to avoid mosquito-borne diseases
Trekking Gear:	If you plan on trekking, you should carry sturdy, comfortable hiking shoes, warm clothing, a backpack, a sleeping bag, and a water bottle.
Electrical Adapters:	Nepal uses type C, D, and M electrical plugs, so bring an adapter if you have electronics with a different plug type.
Portable Charger:	Nepal's power supply can be unreliable, so bringing a portable charger is a good idea to keep your electronics charged.

Here are some do's and don'ts to keep in mind when visiting Nepal:

Do's in Nepal:

- Respect local customs and traditions: Nepal has a rich cultural heritage, so it's important to be respectful towards local customs and traditions. Learn about the cultural norms and practices, and try to follow them during your stay.
- Dress modestly: While Nepal is a diverse country with varying standards of attire, it is generally appreciated if you dress modestly, especially when visiting religious sites or rural areas. It is advisable to cover your shoulders and knees to show respect.
- Remove your shoes when entering religious sites and private homes: Nepali people follow the custom of removing their shoes before entering religious sites and private residences. It is polite to do the same to show reverence and cleanliness.

- Practice responsible tourism: Nepal is blessed with natural beauty and unique ecosystems. As a responsible tourist, strive to minimize your environmental impact. Avoid littering, use reusable water bottles, and follow designated trails when trekking to preserve the natural surroundings.
- Learn basic Nepali greetings: Learning a few basic Nepali greetings such as "Namaste" (hello), "Dhanyabad" (thank you), and "Kripaya" (please) can go a long way in building rapport with the local people. It shows your appreciation for their culture and makes interactions more meaningful.

Don'ts in Nepal:

- x. Disrespect of religious sites and beliefs: Nepal is a deeply spiritual country, and its people hold their religious sites and beliefs in high regard. Avoid any behavior that may be seen as disrespectful or sacrilegious, such as touching sacred objects without permission or taking photographs where it is prohibited.
- x. Engage in public displays of affection: Nepali society is relatively conservative, and public displays of affection, especially between couples, are generally not accepted. It is best to exercise restraint and avoid such behavior in public to avoid any offense.
- x. Use of your left hand for eating or giving/receiving items: In Nepali culture, the left hand is considered unclean as it is traditionally used for personal hygiene purposes. When dining or interacting with others, always use your right hand for eating and offering or receiving items as a sign of respect.
- x. Give money or sweets to children on the street: Although it may be tempting to give money or sweets to children begging on the streets, it is generally discouraged. This perpetuates the cycle of dependency and may discourage children from attending school. It is better to support reputable local charities working towards education and welfare.
- x. Disregard local customs during festivals: Nepal celebrates numerous vibrant festivals throughout the year. If you happen to be in the country during a festival, be mindful of local customs and practices. Avoid behaviors that may disrupt or disrespect the festive atmosphere and follow instructions from locals or authorities.
- x. By adhering to these do's and don'ts, you will have a more respectful and culturally immersive experience during your visit to Nepal.
