SHINTA MANI MUSTANG

At Shinta Mani Mustang, your health and safety are of paramount importance to us. As you prepare to visit us in the region of Mustang, Nepal, we would like to draw your attention to the potential risk of altitude sickness that may affect some individuals traveling to high-altitude areas.

Altitude sickness, also known as Acute Mountain Sickness (AMS), can occur when your body doesn't have enough time to adapt to the decreased levels of oxygen at high altitudes. Symptoms may include headaches, fatigue, nausea, and shortness of breath. While not everyone will be affected, it can become serious if left untreated.
